Millersville Borough School District

Millersville, Pennsylvania

Fred S. Eshleman School

This new elementary school is located on a 12 acre plot on Leaman Avenue, Millersville. The first unit of this building contains six regular classrooms; a kindergarten room; an all-purpose room, which includes a cafeteria, a kitchen and a stage; a health room; a principal's office; a faculty room; and a covered out-door play-area. The building is so designed that additional six classroom units may be attached in the future.

Fred S. Eshleman, after serving on the School Board for 36 years, is being honored by having this new school dedicated in his name.

Preparation of preliminary plans and specifications was begun on March 10, 1958 and contracts were awarded on August 1, 1958. Construction was begun on August 15, 1958 and the building was completed on September 4, 1959.

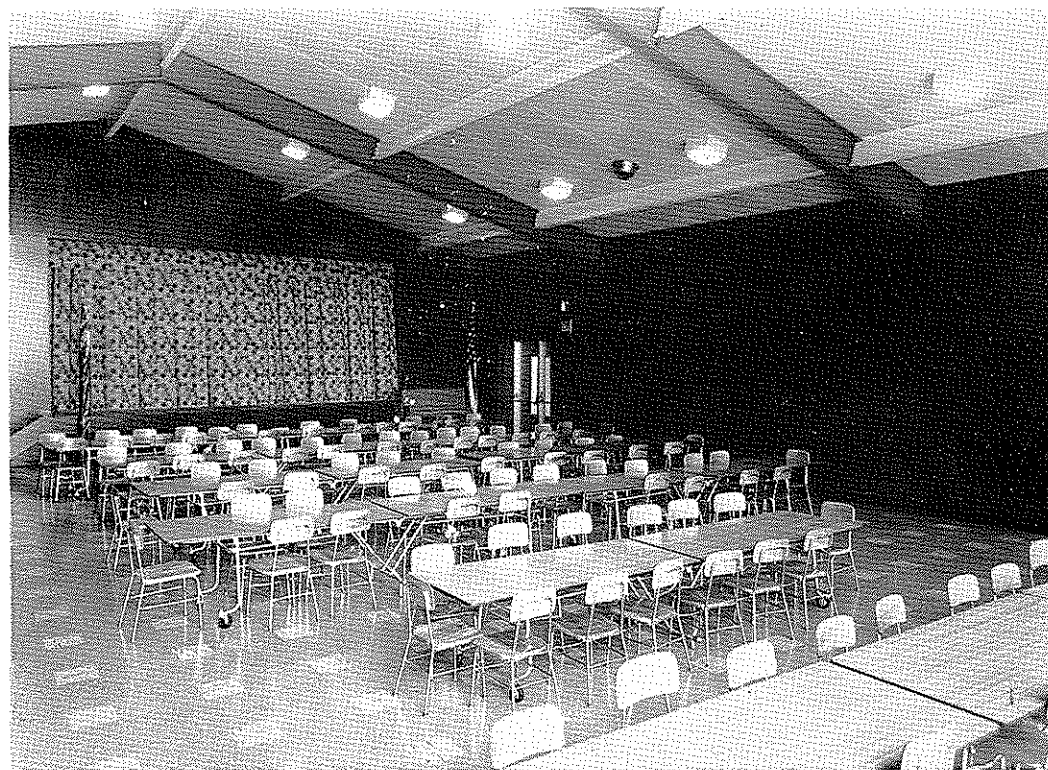

This is the first school building the Millersville Borough School District has been required to provide, since until September, 1959, all of the elementary school pupils were educated in the Laboratory School of the State Teachers College. Because the enrollments increased considerably and because the Teachers College changed its policy concerning the operation of the Laboratory School, only half the elementary school pupils could be accommodated in the Laboratory School. It was therefore necessary for the Millersville Borough School District to build its own elementary school. Millersville Borough School District also owns its proportionate share of the Penn Manor Joint High School.

On November 14, 1959, therefore, the Millersville Borough School District is able to present this beautiful new Fred S. Eshleman School.
